

Evaluations

At Full Moon, new clients start with a working evaluation. During this appointment, we will take a thorough history of your dog's behavioral issues, if any, discuss your goals and then put together a training plan that best suits your dog and your family. We then will talk about nutritional implications for behavioral problems, and get you started with, at minimum, one exercise to work on between your evaluation and your first lesson. These exercises will be some combination of improving your human leadership skills, teaching your dog how to relax, or preparing your dog to do meaningful work. Working evaluations are $95 and best designed for clients who are ready to jump in on training on day one.

If you're unsure if Full Moon is a good fit for you, or simply want more information but aren't ready to get started just yet, we offer complimentary phone evaluations up to 30 minutes long. Please text or email first to schedule your phone evaluation.
